A BIT OF EAST INDIAN HISTORY

- It was the zeal of the native Christians(Agris, Kunbis, Bhandaris, Kolis and many more later known as East Indians) that popularized the Bandra (Mot Mauli Cha Sann) Mount Mary Feast.
- In 1566 the Jesuits built a modest Oratory of mud and thatch and dedicated it to Our Lady of the Nativity
- In 1739 during Maratha invasion this chapel was destroyed and the statue was allegedly dumped into the sea which was rescued by the local fishermen and kept at St.Andrews Church
- In 1761 the Chapel was rebuilt and the statue was carried in procession and restored to its original place on the Mount
- In 1882 a glass enclosed portico was added to the Chapel for extra accommodation as more and more pilgrims came to the shrine to seek mothers blessings
- In 1904 the new Church was built, an edifice in gothic architectural style was opened to public after 2 years of construction
- It was the natives East Indians from Bandra and the islands of Salsette and North Konkan homeland that celebrated the feast of Our Lady of the Mount with great zeal and gusto
- The Thursday preceding the feast was called the "Farm Day" when sweets and cakes were baked in all homes of the East Indian communities.
- In those days speciality sweets were cucumber sweet/ pan mouries and umbers.
- Pigs were slaughtered on this day and East Indian delicacies like Vindalo and Ser-pe-tair were prepared
- A home brewed spiced alcoholic concoction popularly called "Khimad" was a "must" and was kept ready for the feast on the coming Sunday
- The Bandra East Indians invited all their relatives for the Celebration of the Feast in reciprocation, those relatives invited their Bandra counterparts for the Harvest Festival "Agera" which would soon follow
- Horse Tongas or "garras" plied from Bandra station to the very foot of the hill during the Church festivals
- Stalls were set up by North Indian and Konkan belt migrants selling black grams and sweets. Also temporary canteens were set up alongside the pathways selling food and special dishes for the pilgrims.
- It is said that the steps that go up the hill right up to the Church on the Mount was built by a Parsi Gentleman who had made a petition to Mother Mary after his wish was granted, and this childless couple were blessed with a child.

As India propels forward into a dynamic future, a host of hidden gem career opportunities are emerging, ready to be discovered by enterprising individuals. In the year 2023 and beyond, here are five lesser-known yet immensely rewarding career paths that are poised to shine in the Indian professional landscape.

1. Sustainable Agriculture Entrepreneur

With an increasing awareness of sustainable living and a return to nature, the role of a sustainable agriculture entrepreneur is gaining significance. These individuals blend traditional farming practices with modern techniques, focusing on organic and eco-friendly cultivation. From urban rooftop gardens to rural agri-tourism ventures, sustainable agriculture entrepreneurs contribute to food security, environmental conservation, and rural development, all while forging a fulfilling and impactful career.

2. Data Privacy Consultant

In an era of digitization and data-driven decision-making, data privacy is paramount. Data privacy consultants help individuals and organizations navigate the intricate world of data protection laws and best practices. With India's focus on data localization and stringent data protection regulations, data privacy consultants play a pivotal role in ensuring compliance and safeguarding sensitive information.

3. Renewable Energy Technician

India's ambitious renewable energy targets have opened doors for renewable energy technicians. These skilled professionals work on designing, installing, and maintaining solar panels, wind turbines, and other clean energy systems. As the nation strives to reduce its carbon footprint and adopt sustainable energy sources, renewable energy technicians play a vital role in shaping India's energy landscape while enjoying a future-proof career.

4. E-Health Specialist

The fusion of technology and healthcare has given rise to e-health specialists, who bridge the gap between medical expertise and digital innovation. These professionals develop and manage telemedicine platforms, health apps, and remote patient monitoring systems, making quality healthcare accessible to even the most remote corners of India. In a country with a diverse population and varying healthcare needs, e-health specialists are instrumental in revolutionizing healthcare delivery.

5. Ethical Fashion Designer

With a growing emphasis on conscious consumerism and ethical practices, the field of ethical fashion design is ripe for exploration. Ethical fashion designers prioritize sustainable materials, fair labor practices, and eco-friendly production methods. By creating fashion that is both stylish and socially responsible, these designers contribute to India's textile heritage while driving positive change in the fashion industry.

In the rapidly evolving Indian job market, these hidden gem careers offer more than just a paycheck; they provide the chance to contribute to the nation's development and make a meaningful impact on society. As you consider your career path in India for 2023 and beyond, these innovative options can align your passion with purpose and pave the way for a rewarding and transformative professional journey.

GAVOGAAY VAAZTAY MASALA

CHALA SAGLI NAACHAVLA

MGP's Masala Song crosses 50,000 Views

Gleason Barretto, Old Kurla

Music is one of the most important aspects to revive East Indian culture and tradition. Every cultural celebration or religious tradition is complete with Music. Although a large section of our community has great talents in music, only a few of our Music experts have managed to make it big in the music industry. It is mainly because we either did not encourage as much or gave up thinking there was no scope in the future. We have some big names in the Music industry and it's time we create a platform to appreciate and encourage Music talent within the East Indian community. The singing competitions keep increasing with each passing year and it's one good sign to take our Music forward.

A mix of popular songs are sung and we popularly call it a masala. Just like the world famous East Indian bottle masala which have a mix of multiple spices, similarly the East Indian Masala song has a mix of multiple traditional folk songs. For decades now the community functions and celebrations play or perform the East Indian Masala and we have more people joining on the dance floor. These are peppy songs we often sing along creating unity with musical voices. The popularity of the Masala songs promoted us at MGP to release our first edition of the Mumbai East Indian Masala.

Social media platforms like Facebook, Instagram and YouTube have given our music the much-needed push. Meanwhile MGP plans to release the next songs on various other platforms to help us spread across all spectrums. While our music has now reached out to community members across the world, it still needs to break barriers and reach the hearts of other communities. This can happen only if the music is catchy and easy to sing along. And for these efforts are needed by our talented musicians to create catchy music, just like the Punjabi songs which are a rage today.

As soon as news spread about the new song release some of our critics got into action. Some of the singers and MGP were targeted for the masala song, when actually it had included only a few lines of the traditional folk songs. The critics also has an important role to play in making the East Indian Masala song more popular. Those who had not heard about it made it a point to listen and enjoy. The Mumbai East Indian Masala song has made its mark inspite of the criticism received and this is a clear sign that when we perform selflessly for the community, we are blessed with the best. Young music talent is growing and rising and East Indian Music will sure grow in the coming years. We also appeal to senior singers to promote, support and encourage our young talent as they are the future of East Indian Music.

Listeners and viewers today prefer the modern music variations which makes these new generation songs viral. The Mumbai East Indian Masala song crossed 50,000 views in 2 months which is surely a record in the East Indian Music scene. MGP through its music project, MusElc wishes to encourage young talent which is the need of the hour. The masala team did a fantastic job with the song and the video which became a hit overnight and got us an unexpected response. With this kind of response and encouragement, MGP now plans to release atleast one song every year or more depending on the support and response.

Action time is here and like-minded community members are doing their bit to revive music and encourage youngsters. We, at MGP, are making efforts to identify and appreciate music talent with our East Indian Voice of the Year initiative. Creating music that will cross the boundaries of the East Indian community and touch the hearts of other communities is our next objective. Coming up next is the Mumbai East Indian Masala # 2 and Umbrachapani, an urta rap song. MGP made history with the maximum live 50,000 views with the first online East Indian singing competition. And now we made history again with 50,000 views in 2 months for the Mumbai East Indian Masala song. But that's just the beginning for us. By the grace of God, we may make history once again with our MGP team's creativity. We look forward to your support and prayers to take East Indian Music to greater heights. Join us and together let's make East Indian Music bigger, better and the best.
